

Social & Emotional Development On-Demand

Social & Emotional Development

820472 - The Cultivation of Psychosocial Skills for High Performance Within Educational Programs

On Demand

Presenter(s)

Paula Olszewski-Kubilius

Director
Center for Talent Development, Northwestern University
Evanston, IL, United States

Rena F. Subotnik

Director, Center for Psychology in Schools and Education
American Psychological Association
Washington, DC, United States

Katie Berger

Chief Student Affairs Officer
Illinois Mathematics & Science Academy
Aurora, IL, United States

Susan Gold

Head of School
Feynman School
Potomac, MD, United States

Christy Wilkins

Executive Director
Dramatic Results
Signal Hill, CA, United States

Gifted specialists recognize the importance of psychosocial skills to high achievement but rarely deliberately focus on them in their programming. We present case studies of systematic efforts to cultivate these skills in three different contexts: a K-12 gifted school, selective STEM high school, and community-based program. Participants learn effective ways to incorporate psychosocial skill training into their program models.