UN Sustainability Goal

The UNSG Goal we want to touch on is Quality Education and Reducing Inequalities because we aim for the eliminate the inequities in our education system caused by its funding.

Activism Project

We want to start a program for low income schools for low-income students to ignite their passion for education by providing them with academic support, tutoring resources, and motivational programs. We hope to motivate our student to continue their education after receiving their High School Degrees (or GEDs) which will help them establish their own careers.

Policy

We propose a shift from a reliance on local property tax revenues as a substantial source of funding in essence shifting from local property tax reliance to distributing all property taxes across a district equally. By oversight, I mean that the state sets the tax rates or tax ceilings or floors for local school districts (or parent governments).

Importance

Students born into low-income households aren't given equal opportunity to succeed because of their lack of quality education, so with this boost in the quality of education, we will create a more intelligent generation overall. Furthermore, besides being ethically wrong these inequalities are detrimental.
