

Animal Body

The intestines are a long, coiled tube which remove water and dissolved nutrients from the digested food.

The esophagus carries food from the mouth, down through the neck.